spent most of his life "around the sound" this book takes a comedic look at our colorful history. Whether the author is talking about Bremerton's criminal reputation (Seriously, don't go out at night), Port Orchard's lack of directions (Driving around town is like being in a maze that never ends) or Kingston's shanty town history (You could shoot a zombie film without any modifications to the place) Mr. Kilen uses his comedic writing style to make our history interesting to the reader. I would recommend this book to anyone who comes to visit Seattle. After you are worn out with all the sites in the Emerald City, our side of the sound is only a ferry boat ride away and with this book as a guide you can slow the pace down and take in all that is our "around the sound." 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Very funny By Richard Young I can relate to places mentioned having lived in Washington 40 years prior to moving to Santa Fe NM. The author writes very honestly and with a great sense of humor. I will check out more of his books. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Two Stars By Aharrison2003 Not as much information about the city that I hoped for.

If you are a fan of Bill Bryson, Dave Barry, and Patrick McManus, you'll love (or really, really hate*) Around the Sound! From Olympia's mismatched buildings of uncertain origins to the faded Victorian grandeur of Port Townsend, Josh Kilen takes you around the Pacific Northwest's Puget Sound, sharing laugh-out-loud stories and quirky historical facts about this beautiful corner of the Pacific Northwest. You'll spend hours chuckling to yourself, maybe even laughing out loud, reading these short and amusing stories. Part travel essay, part humor writing, this book is filled with stories that are sure to make you smile. So kick back, settle down into your favorite chair, and prepare to be delighted! *Author's Note: Some people just can't be pleased, no matter how much you try. I find the best thing is to let bygones be... well, you know. This book is mostly for people you enjoy laughing while they learn something. It's my sincere hope that you are one of those fine folks and not the 'others.'
