Brian Mooney : Eighteen: (The Recollections of a Would Be Golf Legend) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Eighteen: (The Recollections of a Would Be Golf Legend):

Jack Nicklaus, Seve Ballesteros, Tiger Woods, Rory McIlroy, Brian Mooney. All of them golfing legends. Except for Brian Mooney, who's not. But for every Tiger or Rory there's a million Brians, guys who love the game and would have been legends had they only had the talent, ability and dedication required. This is not the story of pro golf, of long raking drives, majestic towering irons and success and triumph. This is a tale of laughter, frustration, dreams, frustration, enjoyment, frustration, hope and more frustration. This is Brian's story. And it's probably your story too. Enjoy the experiences of nearly forty five years of playing golf , of the characters and the places , told in the relaxed and witty style of the author. If you've played golf you'll recognise and laugh at the situations that Brian has found himself in. If you haven't played, you may not recognise the situations but you'll laugh anyway !

About the Author Brian Mooney it has been said (by him) , is a golf legend living in an accountant's body. Born in Glasgow in 1959, he has now been playing golf for forty five years and enjoyed every minute of it. Having been persuaded by his pro at Milngavie Golf Club that he should put his experiences to paper , "Eighteen" is the author's first book, though he has long experience of writing having written many comedy plays and writing and performing his hour long stand up comedy shows as performed at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival.
